What Have Women Done?
Laughing at Bandits
Weapon Against Reds
Britain in Jerusalem

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

WOMAN SUFFRAGE in this country was ten years old yesterday, and its opponents ask scornfully, "What have women done?"

They have done many things, and most important, they have made politicians ask, "What do the women want?"

Women want what is right, and when they are not deceived concerning prohibition or pacifism they are the most powerful and useful influence in politics.

If men with masks or handkerchiefs on their faces enter your house during an entertainment, pointing guns and saying, "Stick 'em up," don't laugh and think that it is a friendly joke. It usually is not a joke.

At a Cleveland party masked men entered and guests "tittered and laughed." One guest, Miller Wilkinson, 23-year-old student at Princeton, helped to drive out the intruders, threw one of them down and was fatally wounded by the brother of the man whom he had seized.

The murderer told the police: "He was after my brother."

Mr. Lehman, lieutenant governor of New York, rich and intelligent, tells others of the prosperous class that the best weapon against communism and radicalism generally is HIGH WAGES, "leading to prosperity, happiness, self-respect and pride in home and country."

Mr. Lehman is right. All the alleged Russian propaganda multiplied by a thousand could not create as many dissatisfied "radicals" in this country as a year or two of depression followed by a foolish attempt to reduce wages.

Cut sixty billions a year in wages to forty billions and you would cut down prosperity by much more than twenty billions a year. It is the amount paid in wages above the bare cost of existence that creates prosperity.

A LEAGUE OF NATIONS committee appointed to watch nations exercising mandates for so-called "inferior peoples" criticizes Britain severely for incompetency in connection with last year's murderous riots in Jerusalem.

The British idea was to criticize others and more or less boss the league of nations—and criticism does not sit well on the British stomach.

Britain replies that it could not know that murders were about to be committed, or understand the intense feeling connected with Jerusalem's "Wailing Wall," claimed by Jews and Arabs.

Henceforth the British will limit Jewish emigration to Jerusalem to avoid further friction.

A criminal develops an ingenious plan for extorting money. Following the disappearance of a young girl, the would-be extortionist telegraphed the girl's father, telling of a carrier pigeon, provided for the purpose, and release the pigeon.

The pigeon could not betray the conspirators. And if an airplane could follow it, without frightening the bird, the airplane would surely warn the conspirators.

Police think the schemers know nothing about the girl and are merely speculating on her disappearance.

OHIO PARTIES SQUARE AWAY FOR FALL RACE

Republicans Name Schorr, Cooper Choice, State Chairman.

DEMOCRAT PLATFORM DRY

Warner Hits at Washington Control in Fight Over Woman Committee Member.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27—Having completed organization of their state committees, Ohio Democratic and Republican leaders squared away today for the fall elections contest with both sides claiming united fronts.

Fears among Democrats that the prohibition question might jeopardize party harmony were dissipated by the decision of the candidates not to incorporate a wet plank in the state platform, leaving the matter as a national issue between their senatorial nominee, Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, and Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch.

The agreement was reached following organization meetings of the state central and executive committees yesterday and both Bulkley and George White of Marietta, gubernatorial nominee issued acquiescent statements.

Bulkley's Opinion Same

Bulkley emphasized, however, that omission of the liquor question from the state platform did not change his opinion and that he will continue to advocate repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. He added that prohibition was " a strictly federal question" and that he was willing to leave it out of the state platform "for the sake of party harmony."

Except for a squabble over the endorsement of Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan of Steubenville for national committeewoman from Ohio to succeed the late Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, the meeting of the Republican state central committee turned out to be a quiet affair.

GALION YOUTH CRASH VICTIM

Broken Neck Causes Death of Clyde Campbell; Two in Critical Condition.

Special To The Star

GALION, Aug. 27—A broken neck sustained in an automobile accident sometime last night or early this morning proved fatal to Clyde Virgil Campell, 20, of 943 Harding Way E. here. He died in Monnett Memorial hospital at Bucyrus, where he was taken after an auto in which he was a passenger crashed into a huge rock three miles north of Nevada. Two others are in critical condition as a result of the accident.

Meager reports of how the accident happened could be obtained this morning, leaving even the parents of the boy with but little knowledge of the fatal crash. A man whose name was given as Francis Putman, 28, was driving the car, according to one report today. He is also at Monnett hospital in critical condition with a fractured jaw and crushed chest. Charles A. Newland, 36, was badly cut and bruised and is believed recovering at the Bucyrus hospital.

Campbell was prominent in high school activities here preceding his graduation in 1928. He was born near Caledonia, Sept. 15, 1909, the son of James and Florence Heinla Campbell.

Surviving are the mother and father, two brothers Richard of Mt Gilead and Chester at home. A sister, Mrs. E. W. Temple of Caledonia also survives.

Although funeral arrangements have not been made, the body will be removed to the home in Galion tonight.

By International News Service

CANTON, O., Aug. 27—Renovation of the Falcon Tin Plate Co. plant here, which has been purchased by three Mansfield financiers, was well under way today. The plant is expected to be in operation for the production of tin plate and tin mill specialties by next November 1.

Announcement of the purchase of the plant was made yesterday by Charles E. Morris, manager of the chamber of commerce. The new owners are W. H. and Sam Davey and W. R. Jenkins, all of whom are well known in Ohio industrial circles.

GERMAN AIRMEN LAND IN N. Y.

This Associated Press telephoto is the first picture of the German airmen who hopped across the Atlantic ocean by way of Greenland and Iceland. It shows them at New York. Captain Gronau extreme left, surrounded by companions, after he had thrown line to police tug.

GRONAU HAD NO IDEA OF SPANNING OCEAN

This Is Statement of German Aviator in Reference to Mysterious Atlantic Flight.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—Nine days after their unheralded departure from Germany, Captain Wolfang Von Gronau and his three companions rested here today, having completed the fourth successful westward crossing of the north Atlantic by airplane.

They landed their Dornier-Wal flying boat off the Battery wall at 2:45 p. m. (EST) yesterday having made the last lap of their flight from Halifax in six hours.

Fulfills Old Dream

The flight fulfilled for Captain Von Gronau, crisp-spoken veteran of the German Imperial navy flying service, an old dream and gained him the distinction of being the first to land a trans-Atlantic plane in New York harbor.

Added glamor was given the flight by the fact that it was made in an old reconditioned ship, used by Amundsen in Arctic exploration and by Captain Frank Courtney in an abortive attempt to span the Atlantic.

It was estimated the fliers covered about 4,000 nautical miles in a flying time of 47 hours. Enroute here they stopped in Iceland, Greenland, Labrador and Nova Scotia.

A shout from 5,000 throats heralded the plane's arrival. It headed across the tip of Manhattan circled the Statue of Liberty in salute and then came down, landing gracefully about fifty yards from the Aquarium.

Tug Meets Plane

It had been expected the plane would land off the Statue of Liberty and the Municipal tug, the Macom with a reception committee aboard was headed there when the plane came down. The tug turned about and the fliers were transferred to her. After a reception ashore they returned to their plane and flew it to the East river where it was housed in a police hangar.

Captain Von Gronau, said they had no idea when they left the Isle of Syit in the North Sea that they were on their way to New York.

"I wanted to see how it would go, how the weather was and so on, before I definitely decided to continue," he said.

POSTMASTER TAKEN BY HEART DISEASE

Colonel Albert E. Gale of Lima Succumbs Six Hours After Attack.

By International News Service

LIMA, O., Aug. 27—Colonel Albert E. Gale, who served 13 years under four presidents as Lima postmaster, is dead today following a short illness with heart disease.

Colonel Gale, who was prominent in Republican politics in northwestern Ohio, died suddenly last night six hours after he had been stricken with a heart attack.

He was former city safety director and won high distinction in three major military campaigns of the United States.

Colonel Gale served as a first sergeant in the Spanish-American war; as lieutenant colonel in command of the Second Ohio infantry on the Mexican border in 1916, and as commander of the same regiment in the World war.

Mrs. Gale, who is a member of the Republican state central committee and is chairman of the Allen county Republican executive committee, was in Columbus attending a political meeting when her husband died.

PERU CHIEF STRICKEN ILL

Former President of South American Republic Prisoner Aboard Cruiser.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 27—Augusto B. Leguia, an ill old man of 67, tossed feverishly in bed aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao harbor today and sought a way out of the trap in which his political enemies, long suppressed, had caught him.

Increasingly ominous reports reached his bedside from Lima, where a military junta, replacing his eleven year regime, promised the populace that he would be brought back and punished for the "misdeeds" of his dictatorship.

Friends and the diplomatic corps in Lima sought from General Manuel Maria Ponce, heading the military junta, assurances of his safety, but countering their efforts were the activities of returning exiles and freed political prisoners with profound convictions of old and stupendous scores to settle.

The former president, whose status changed overnight from dictator of one of the most powerful South American republics to that of a prisoner awaiting judgment, was said today to be seriously, although not gravely ill, of a uremic attack which struck him down Monday afternoon, not many hours after his resignation.

The Almirante Grau returned to Callao harbor with the former president only after events which inspired a false hope of freedom in exile in him. Leaving Mon-

French Army Fliers Die As Planes Crash in Night Maneuvers

By The Associated Press

DIJON, France, Aug. 27—A pilot, two non-commissioned officers and the wireless operator of a military airplane were killed early today when their machine crashed near Corcelles-Les-Monts, a few miles west of here.

Two other members of the crew saved their lives by jumping with parachutes. They escaped with slight injuries.

Ten military aviators have lost their lives in France within a few hours.

Last night while in defense maneuvers six army fliers were killed when they cracked up at Chevreaux, near Chartres.

BANKERS MAKE DROUTH STUDY

Committee of Three Submits Overnight Report; See Reduced Wheat Acreage.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Financial representatives of 15 states, meeting today with Secretary Hyde to complete drouth relief plans, had before them the result of an overnight study by three leading bankers.

Melvin A. Taylor of Chicago, Nicholas Dosker of Louisville, and Morton Prentis of Baltimore were appointed at a conference yesterday with President Hoover to prepare recommendations for utilizing available financial agencies. Their work was based on a broad plan of setting up state and local credit corporations to act as intermediaries in handling loans to farmers of the affected regions.

Banker members of the relief committees from drouth states, called in yesterday by the President asked also for an exhaustive survey of the resources which the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Farm board, the department of agriculture and the Federal Reserve board could throw into the relief campaign.

The task of the bankers today was to fill in the general plan with working details, applicable to each local condition. After yesterday's session stress again was laid on the local character of the relief needed, and conviction was expressed that local agencies could best deal with the problem.

Secretary Hyde told the bankers that relief machinery already was functioning. A total of 665 carloads of feed and other necessities have been shipped to West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and Ohio.

An optimistic note in the general agricultural picture was seen also in yesterday's agriculture department report that farmers intend seeding 4.5 per cent less winter wheat this season than last year. The reduction in intentions was remarked upon as crowning the efforts of Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the farm board for a curtailed wheat acreage to conquer the series surplus situation of this year.

Will Yearns

(Will Rogers Special)

TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Aug. 27—I don't know who you are, or where you are, but go to the Chicago air show.

I sho wish I could make it. It keeps getting bigger and bigger every year. It will be the one event in America that everybody will want to see.

An auto show is like a checker game in comparison. Think of seeing all of our finest aviators doing stunts at one show.

It will always be the one show you can go to and not have your view obstructed by a broad-shouldered policeman. They can successfully keep you from seeing a prize fight, a ball game and all parades, but they can't keep you from watching an aviator.

THREE STATES PICK SENATE LEADERS AGAIN

Blease in South Carolina, Harrison in Mississippi and Borah in Idaho Win.

ELECTIONS ARE ASSURED

San Francisco Mayor Appears To Be Winner Over Young for California Chief.

By The Associated Press

The 10,000-odd lead of Cole L. Blease for Democratic renomination to the senate from South Carolina stood out today with the continuation of tabulation of votes cast in yesterday's primaries.

In California, Mayor James Rolph Jr., of San Francisco, was running ahead of Governor C. C. Young by 30,000 votes for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. A majority of the precincts had reported.

Senator William E. Borah was renominated by the Idaho Republican convention. Both the Republican and Democratic conventions had yet to choose nominees for governors.

With less than 600 of the 1,075 precincts remaining to report, Blease still had a chance for a majority of the votes cast for the three candidates in South Carolina. Unless this materializes, another contest between him and the runner-up—James F. Byrnes—will be held on Sept. 9.

The nomination amounts to election.

Mississippi Democrats renominated Senator Pat Harrison and seven of their eight representatives in the house. It also looked as though representative Ross Collins, the only incumbent to face a contest, had won again. The Democratic nominations there are equivalent to election.

FAIL TO ADOPT RELIEF PLAN

City Officials Hold Informal Discussion of Council's Failure To Pass Levy.

Although the refusal of city council Monday night to allow the proposed one mill tax levy to be placed on the tax duplicate may force Marion to resort to strict economy measures to keep within its income, nothing definite in the matter of curtailing operating expenses has been agreed on yet.

An informal discussion among city officials yesterday failed to bring any decision as to what city service would be the first to feel the effects of the forced economy.

It has been reported that the city may be forced to do without street lighting service in the near future unless some means of raising additional revenue is produced.

No decision has been made yet as to whether the city will add four new firemen to the fire department. Unless the extra men are added before Sept. 1 there will be a 10 per cent boost in local fire insurance rates.

The city originally had decided to increase the force but the decision of the council not to ask the public for an additional one mill levy may cause the officials to reconsider their action. Unless some means of producing revenue is found it is feared by the officials that the city would be unable to meet the increased payroll.

It is believed that the council may again be asked at its meeting Monday Sept. 8 to reconsider its refusal to allow the proposed levy to be placed before Marion voters. It would be the latest possible regular meeting at which the proposal could be considered as the measure must be passed prior to Sept. 15 to be placed on the ballot.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—The nonstop derby from Los Angeles still held paramount interest in the national air races today.

Dependent upon the speed in which Art Goebel, Dole Pacific flight winner, can span the western desert, mountains and plains, first place was held by Wiley Post of Oklahoma City.

Post streaked across the finish line at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport shortly after 5:30 p. m. yesterday, just nine hours, nine minutes and four seconds after taking off from Los Angeles.

Lee Schoenhair, Akron, O., was second. His time was 9:39 17. Capt. William Brock, New York-to-Tokyo flier, was third with a time of 9:53:57. Five minutes later, Roscoe Turner, former holder of transcontinental records, finished.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, won the Women's Dixie Derby from Washington, D. C. yesterday with an elapsed time of 11 hours, 47 minutes and 21 seconds. Mrs. Martle Bowman, Hempstead, N. Y., was second; Laura Ingalls, St. Louis, third; Nancy Hopkins, New York City, fourth.

MAN SAVES FAMILY TRAPPED BY FIRE

Caledonia Resident Leaps from Second Story To Rescue Wife, Daughters.

Special To The Star

CALEDONIA, Aug. 27—Trapped with his family in the upper rooms of their blazing residence on Water street early this morning, Melvin Fink jumped from an upstairs window, obtained a ladder, and rescued his wife and two daughters. None of them is in serious condition, although Mrs. Fink was nearly overcome by smoke before escaping from the burning building.

The residence and its contents were consumed by fire, which had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by members of the family. Smoke and fumes from the lower floor, where the fire originated, awakened members of the family, but not until after the stairway was in flames and partially destroyed.

Defective wiring in the kitchen of the home is blamed for starting the fire. It was discovered at 3 a. m. today. The Caledonia fire department kept the blaze from spreading to other buildings, but could not save either house or contents.

The property is owned by George Ashley of Marion. Loss is partially covered by insurance.

SECOND JURY SELECTED IN JEWEL CASE

Miss Bessie Bibler Not To Be Sentenced Until End of Hearing.

DELIBERATES 4½ HOURS

State Places Two Witnesses on Stand Against Man Indicted with Woman.

Less than 24 hours after a jury had found Bessie Bibler, maid, guilty of grand larceny in the theft of jewels from the home of Ed C. Watters early in June, another jury today was listening to evidence presented by the state against William Hatcher, charged with receiving the stolen jewels.

Miss Bibler was found guilty by the jury yesterday after it had deliberated four and one-half hours. The case was closed at 10:30 a. m. yesterday and the verdict was not returned until 4 p. m. A one-hour recess was held at noon for lunch.

Jewels Stolen June 10

The jewels, valued by Watters at $3,400, were found missing June 10 and the loss was reported to police the next day. An investigation led to questioning Miss Bibler, a maid in the home, and later Hatcher was arrested when it was learned that he had allegedly used part of the jewels to purchase an automobile in Bellefontaine.

Defense Attorney Fred W. Warner in his argument to the jury before it retired to deliberate the case laid the blame for the crime to Hatcher, who, he declared, influenced the woman to admit him to the Watters home.

Miss Bibler probably will not be sentenced by Judge George B. Scofield until the case against Hatcher is completed. Miss Bibler was to appear this afternoon as a witness against the man, who is being defended by Attorney L. E. Myers.

Watters, Ford Take Stand

Watters and L. H. Ford, jeweler, were the only witnesses who took the stand this morning before Judge Scofield called a recess for lunch. Approximately 10 other witnesses for the prosecution and 18 for the defense were to be heard today or Thursday.

Watters told of missing the jewels on June 10, following a trip with his wife to Columbus. During the trip he casually remarked to his wife that she had left her rings at home, but neither knew at the time that the jewels had been stolen, he said.

Ford examined the jewelry, all of which has been recovered, this morning and testified that the various pieces were worth conservatively $2,750.

Six jurors were excused from duty while the jury box was being filled this morning. Those who finally sat in on the case are as follows: Harley Lyon of Martel, Floretta Almendinger of 271 West Church street, Mary Musser of 688 North State street, John E. Jones of 774 Mt. Vernon avenue, D. J. Baird of Caledonia, C. F. Bechtel of 277 West Columbia street, Catherine Gelbaugh of 546 Cherry street, Ralph E. Grubaugh of 131 Carhart street, L. T. Young of 478 Summit street, Mrs. Doxie Crawmer of 659 Mt. Vernon avenue, Jacob Brokaw of 235 Pearl street, and John Uline.

PILOT DIES AS RACING SHIPFALLS

By The Associated Press

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT, Chicago, Aug. 27—J. P. Deshazo, navy flier from Alabama was killed and a spectator whose name was not learned was injured seriously today when Deshazo's pursuit plane crashed just west of the far right bleachers of the National air races.

The crash occurred just as 17 navy planes passed the last pylon in a 50 mile speed race. Deshazo, flying 100 feet from the ground attempted to do a spectacular roll. The plane burst into flames as it hit the ground in front of a concession stand.

Several people, seeing Deshazo's plane rushing down, saved their lives by running. The pilot was burned beyond recognition. He had finished third in the race.

Deshazo was unmarried. He entered Annapolis in 1921 and graduated in 1925.

He was a member of the Navy unit of stunt fliers known as the Fifth fighting squadron.

High and Tough

THERE is irony in many things that are said, especially in this day and age, and in some of the things that are done.

One Marion woman who is spending several weeks at a nearby resort, put over a good one. Resorts, as everyone knows who's been to one, are no place to find food delicacies, or even what is desired in the more staple lines.

Ham at 85 cents a pound is considered rather gilt-edge meat, but if it's good, resorters are willing to pay any price. She purchased several pounds and went home, but when she tried to cut it for sandwiches, it was like cutting high-grade rubber—it folded up on all sides of the standard summer-cottage knife, but not a dent in the meat.

Because there wasn't any use trying to argue with the meat-seller, she walked back to the store and with sarcasm putting an edge to every word asked if she might kindly borrow the meat grinder.

Back at the cottage she attached the grinder to the table, wrestled with tearing the meat apart, and ground it up for ham salad filling.

Mixed Dates

A BIT of humor was injected into a recent liquor hearing in probate court.

Two state prohibition agents had testified from the stand concerning their dealings with a colored man during their recent operations in the city.

They testified they had paid the man $1.50 to bring back to them six bottles of beer.

Evidence, however, was insufficient, so thought Probate Judge Oscar Gast, and he dismissed the case.

Just as the erstwhile prisoner arose to walk out, he grinned broadly at the judge and declared, "Them two fellows had their dates mixed. It was on Aug. 7 and not Aug. 12."

No High Hat

THE city resident no longer can "high hat" the suburbanite for the 1930 census revealed that the automobile is changing the centers of population, according to Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club.

Under the stimulus of low-price and efficient cars, the suburbs are waxing greater, while the big cities are ceasing their rapid growth, she points out. Cheap bus transportation also is an important factor in the growth of outlying districts, she believes.

"Although the drift from the farm continues," Mrs. Gallagher says, "the medium size towns and cities are reaping their share of the trek, but the cities are getting less.

"Cleveland gained 12.6 per cent in the past 10 years, but Cleveland Heights, a suburb, gained 228 per cent. Chicago, Pittsburgh, Rochester, Buffalo and Indianapolis are among other cities to present similar stories.

"In general, these statistics show that as cities reach or pass the half million mark they will face a declining growth rate with suburbs gaining much more rapidly, all on account of the automobile which can carry people from the outskirts of a great city to the downtown section in a hurry at little cost," Mrs. Gallagher explains.

No mystery about why it checks loose Dandruff

IF your scalp itches or burns, if your hair is thinning or you are troubled with loose dandruff, begin using full strength Listerine, systematically, as an antiseptic shampoo. Simply douse it on and massage the scalp as vigorously as you can.

Literally tens of thousands who have rid themselves of a dandruffy condition with Listerine, are simply amazed by the speed with which it gets results.

Yet when the facts are known there is no mystery about its success.

Many dermatologists claim dandruff is caused by germs. They successfully combat it with a combination of frequent massage and the application of healing antiseptics.

Full strength Listerine, as you know, is so safe and soothing it may be used in any body cavity. And at the same time is so powerful it kills even the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) and M. Aureus (pus) germs in 15 seconds.

At the first sign of dandruff, begin using Listerine. Simply douse it on the scalp full strength. Massage vigorously—moving the scalp itself—not the fingers. Results will delight you. But don't expect a miracle over night. It is important that you keep the treatment up, systematically, for several days, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry. PLEAS OF TWO ARE CHANGED

Trimmer Placed on Probation; Bratton Given Extra Stay in Jail.

Two prisoners indicted last month by the grand jury yesterday appeared in common pleas court and changed their pleas to guilty, while an indictment against a third was nolled.

Marion L. Trimmer, charged with automobile stealing and burglary, was placed on one year's probation when he promised the court he would find a job and keep out of trouble. If he violates his promise, Judge George B. Scofield will give him a penitentiary sentence immediately on the two charges on which he was indicted, he told him.

Walter Bratton, charged with burglary of a chicken house, was given 10 extra days in the county jail as a penalty for his confessed offense.

Bratton took the entire blame for the theft more than a month ago of chickens from a Richland township farm and his confession entirely absolved Lester Bird, also indicted by the grand jury on the same charge, according to Alfred Donithen, prosecuting attorney.

Because of the confession and because of new evidence to prove that Bird was in the city during the theft, Donithen urged the court to nolle the indictment against him and the man was released yesterday.

Youth Works Fast But Fails To Get Bride

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 27—Matilda is looking for the presumptious youth who applied for a license to marry her without bothering to reach an agreement with the party of the second part.

When Miss Matilda Zebarah, 21, returned home from her vacation in Chicago, she found her mother weeping. "Why did you do it, honey? You don't have to run away" sobbed Mrs. Zebarah.

"Do what? Run where?"

They showed her a newspaper clipping listing Matilda and a Mr. Theodore E. Laskey, 21, as applicants for a marriage license. Leading to the belief that Matilda had eloped during her vacation.

Miss Zebarah appeared forthwith at the county building to demand that the license clerk tear up the application.

"I'll give Ted Laskey a piece of my mind when I catch him," said Matilda.

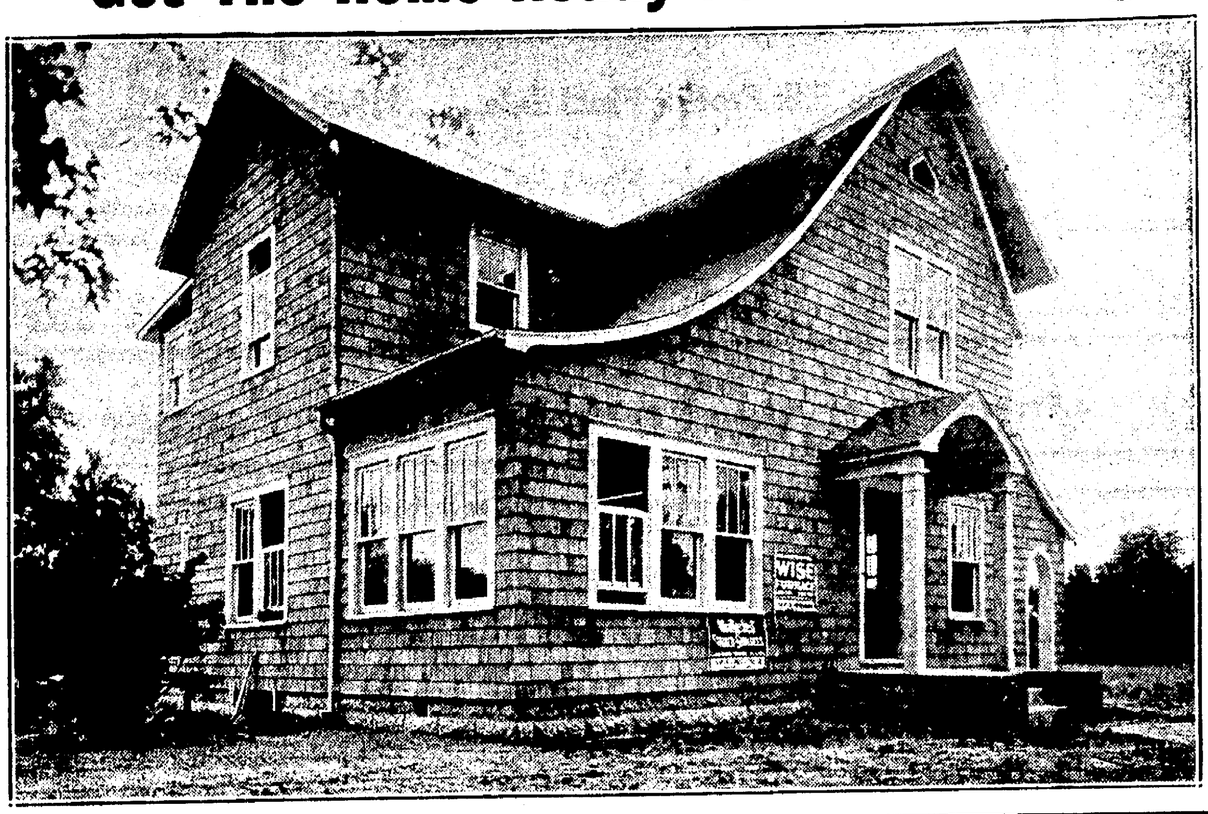
Now Is The Time To Modernize—To Repair—To Get The Home Ready For The Coming Winter



Local Residence—Before and After Modernization

A striking example of what an economical program of modernization will do is clearly shown in the home of Miss Bertha Irey at Forest street and Mt. Vernon avenue, where a few well placed dollars have changed the appearance of an ordinary appearing residence to one of unique and picturesque beauty.

Complete House Modern

Completed, the house is modern in every respect, boasting four rooms upstairs and four down. A hall and bathroom are included in the top floor.

The lower floor, staircase and upperhall is finished in red gum, a deep-hued finish of beauty. The upper floor is finished in white enamel.

The bathroom has a striking appearance, with its grass-green finish and white fixtures.

Outside walls are doubly insulated by Weather-Best stained shingles which were applied over the ordinary siding in which the house was originally finished.

Solid floors that have given years of service in this house were put to a good use when they became the foundation for hardwood floors that have been termed beautiful by visitors at the house. These floors are of natural finish and lend a distinctive touch to the modernized residence.

Kitchen Neat, Roomy

A roomy yet compact kitchen is the result of a carefully planned remodeling program in the culinary department of the house. A workbench is built around the sink, all of which is beneath a window that gives the housewife plenty of room and light without a sacrifice of compactness.

A slate roof tops off the remodeled residence, the final touch to the house shown in the picture on this page. Another picture shows the same house before the program was carried out.

Any one of these firms will gladly aid you in your Fall plans. This plan service is free and does not obligate you in any way. Tell them your problem. Prices of lumber and material are practically at Pre-War prices at present.

with regret that Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of President Roosevelt, long an earnest advocate of temperance, denounces the prohibition law. She says, "An unenforceable law is a dangerous spot for graft and corruption."

UNDER OLD GERMAN law, much older than the war, the flying machine, submarine or even the railroad, a man and woman living together, not married, are called "immoral and a public nuisance."

The law has not changed officially, but court decisions tend to a lenient view of what was once unforgivable. A high German court says, "Offenses against marriage concern only those involved," which means they are none of the public's business.

Marriages in the rural districts of the Irish Free State are diminishing. Once Irish girls came to this country, worked, saved and went back to marry farmers that they had known in childhood. Their savings helped the country.

Now they come, stay and marry here, returning, if at all, to visit their parents.

The loss for Ireland is a gain for the United States.

getting ability among the state's Democrats.

Running for renomination in his party's primary yesterday, Senator Blease had piled up 72,062 votes when reports from 1,075 of the 1,528 precincts had been tabulated, to give him a substantial lead over both his opponents.

James F. Byrnes, representative from the second congressional district for 14 years and runner-up to Blease six years ago, will probably face his old political foe in another battle of votes on Sept. 9, date of the second primary if one is necessary. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Byrnes had amassed a total of 49,871 from the same precincts. Leon W. Harris, the third candidate, was trailing with 24,098.

In the gubernatorial race, Olin D. Johnston, Spartanburg legislator and opponent of the state's $65,000,000 highway bond issue, took a commanding lead over seven opponents when reports from 1,133 precincts had been tabulated.

ROLPH APPEARS WINNER

California Runs True to Form in Defeating Governor of Reelection.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27—James Rolph Jr., San Francisco's perennial mayor, was leading Governor C. C. Young and Buron Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney, in the race for the Republican nomination for governor on the basis of returns early today from the California primary election.

The Republican nomination is considered tantamount to election. With the exception of Hiram Johnson, no governor of California ever has been re-elected.

Prohibition did not attain the statuts of an issue in the governorship campaign although Rolph was conceded to have "liberal" views in that respect. Both Young and Fitts received informal support from dry organizations.

Totals for 5,226 precincts out of 10,283 gave Rolph 203,184; Young 172,320; Fitts 120,462; Milton Young 8,213 and Clara Shortridge Foltz 1,487.

Upton Sinclair, running as a Socialist, polled 657.

Democrats Fail To Name Opponent to Veteran Idaho Senator.

By The Associated Press

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Aug. 27—William E. Borah, who has represented Idaho in the United States senate for 23 years, was the Republican senatorial nominee today for the fifth time.

When the veteran chairman of the foreign relations committee was nominated yesterday by the state Republican convention, Democrats preparing for their convention at St. Anthony announced they would not select a candidate to oppose him.

A change of sentiment was apparent today, however, and prominent Democratic leaders predicted a complete slate of candidates, including an opponent for Borah, would be forthcoming in the convention.

Borah's nomination was opposed by a single county delegation on the grounds that he had failed to support the President national administration and had opposed the enactment of the tariff bill, favored by other Idaho congressional representatives.

In case of inclement weather it was decided to hold the picnic at the hall. A regular meeting will be held Tuesday night.

day morning after his resignation, the officers of the cruiser thought to take their prisoner to Panama and land him there.

The junta informed the captain that if Legula were not delivered to them within 48 hours the ship would be treated as an enemy vessel and its officers held to account.

The dissension between the junta here and the provisional government set up by the revolutionaries at Arequipa, where the movement began last Friday, showed signs today of dispelling. Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro, head of the Arequipa movement, is expected here in person to negotiate with General Ponce.

Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro's decision to this end was reached after a conference with airplane emsissaries of the Lima junta, who, Arequipa dispatches said, recognized him as chief of the revolutionary movement. Until their arrival Colonel Sanchez Cerro had refused to recognize the Lima junta, professing to see in it an instrument of the deposed president.

Martial law still is in force here. Complete order prevails.

It Would Shoot, Boys Discover; One in Hospital

It must have been the gun responsible for "The shot heard round the world."

Anyway, it was responsible for a piece of metal in the leg of Homer H. Glenn, 18, of 667 Marshall street which had to be removed today at City hospital.

Five weeks ago Glenn and two other boys went groundhog hunting on a farm west of Marion just to see if it would shoot, they took with them an old musket belonging to one of the boys' father. The old shooting iron hadn't exploded powder for more than 20 years.

Out in the open fields they decided to see just what their prize piece of miniature cannon would do. One of the boys knelt down so that the force of the discharge wouldn't knock him to the ground, and pulled the trigger.

Homer, standing behind him, saw the gun fly into a thousand small pieces, and felt the sting of one sharp missile as it hit his leg.

He has been under a doctor's care since that time and today it was found necessary to take him to the hospital for the removal of the piece of the old musket.

tion of Edward D. Schorr of Cincinnati to the post without opposition. Schorr is state director of commerce and his selection was favored by Governor Cooper.

Miss Gertrude Jones of Findlay was elected vice chairman, and W. H. Duff of Columbus, secretary.

Earl H. Lewis of St. Clairsville, also supported by Cooper, was named campaign manager. He announced that state headquarters would be opened here in a few days.

The flare-up over Mrs. LeVan's endorsement came after Fred W. Warner of Marion charged that Postmaster General Brown and Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican chief, were trying to block her appointment. The Brown-Maschke group is understood to be backing Miss Gertrude Jones of Findlay for the post.

Mrs. Louis Devoe of Ashland joined in the discussion by asking, "Are we not competent to judge what is necessary in Ohio without letting Washington tell us?"

Approval Unanimous

After voting down motions to delay the endorsement, the committee finally approved Mrs. LeVan unanimously. The actual appointment will be made by the national executive committee which as a rule follows recommendations of the state groups.

All officers were reelected at the Democratic organization meetings. The state central group reelected Earl Hanefeld of Ottawa, chairman; Mrs. Luetta Peabody Magruder of Oberlin, vice chairman; Clarence N. Greer of Dayton, secretary, and W. A. DEFENSE FINISHES ATTACK ON EATON

Cleveland Financier Turned Back to Plaintiffs for Examination.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 27 — The defense wound up its attack on Cyrus E. Eaton's credibility as a witness in the suit against the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger when Attorney Newton D. Baker concluded his cross examination of the Cleveland financier today.

He was turned back to the plaintiffs for re-direct examination and one of his first revelations was that he receives a salary of $23,000 a year. Of this sum $18,000 is paid by Otis and Co., in which he is a partner and $5,000 by Sheet and Tube for his services as a member of the executive committee, Eaton testified.

Another exhibit was a long summary of the Republic Steel Corporation merger put together by the Eaton interests. After this had been read by Baker he elicited testimony from Eaton that Otis and Co. had formed a syndicate to underwrite this merger and that commissions totalled $1,000,000.

Eaton also testified that Otis and Co. received an option on 200,000 shares of common stock in the New Republic at $75 a share and Baker wanted to know if the benefits of the option which extended over a period of two years were offered by Otis and Co. to other members of the underwriting syndicate.

Eaton answered that all were informed of the option and that they could purchase conditionally. However, he did not remember the conditions. The plaintiffs agreed to supply this information.

St. Louis Motorists Held Up Enroute to Cleveland; Loot Is $3,700.

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27—Harold Johnson and his uncle Walter Johnson salesmen of St. Louis, Mo., were heldup and robbed of $500 in cash and jewelry valued at $3,125 on the Broadway road, 14 miles south of Cleveland today, as they were driving toward the city, according to police.

They told police they were forced to stop at the side of the road by two men in a large automobile whom they believed to be cruising policemen. The two robbers drew guns and ordered the St. Louis men out of the car and proceeded to relieve them of their cash and jewelry.

From Harold Johnson, the holdup men took $116 in cash and a diamond stickpin. Walter was forced to hand over $480 in cash; two diamond rings and a stick pin with a setting of 14 diamonds, according to the story told police. The robbers then permitted the Johnson brothers to drive on.

The St. Louis men reported that they had been spending part of their vacation in Akron and were enroute to Cleveland to visit friends when the robbery took place.

Sentimental Values.

Four hundred and fifty tourists from the United States landed in Leningrad, Russia, a week or so ago to make a four-day tour of the city and to gather, in American fashion, as many impressions and talking points as possible.

Their hosts were not mealy mouthed in announcing at the end of the visit that the Americans had left them wealthier by $250,000 exchanged for Russian products, relics and services. "One man from Boston," reported Pravda, the Communist party organ, "paid our government 25,000 rubles—$12,750—for a silver tea set which belonged to the Tsar." The same newspaper placed the total expenditures by the Americans for confiscated property at $50,000.

When the Russian soviet sells relics from the Czarist regime it figures values on two scales, real and sentimental. The world jewelry trade, unfortunately, has not shown itself keen to take risks in sentimental values and, as a result, a great many relics still remain to be sold. Among the stock still on the shelves are the crown jewels, which symbolize in a very real way the cause of the revolution.

Sentimental value. It is a good lure—especially good for people with money, people with sentiment and, most important, people unbothered by a frankness of sales tactics which hangs no curtain over the grim jest. But what an interesting phase sentimental value becomes when applied to reminders of a hated regime by a commercial people who might almost be expected to throw them into the sea.

Hereafter children under fourteen years of age will be barred from bull fights in Spain. Why place an age limit on a good thing like that?

Finding her husband promenading with another woman, a sturdy young Norwegian housewife of Duluth took him across her knee and spanked him. Scandinavian girls take flirting seriously—after marriage.

Dr. J. W. Frazier, professor of chemistry in Johns Hopkins university, claims to be able to eliminate auto exhaust gas. If he can do it, a monument should be raised to him as one of the greatest benefactors of the time to humanity.

The late William McAdoo, who had served the city of New York for fifty years and was its chief magistrate at the time of his death, left an estate of but $5,000—a tribute to the honesty of the bench, the more remarkable in the light of the recent revelations of corruption in some departments of that city's government.

The total amount of money borrowed by the soviet government from the people of Russia increased 100 per cent. during 1929, being now $1,275,000,000. We assume the Russians figure they may just as well loan their money to the bolsheviki as have it taken from them by the government.

A dispatch from Rhinelander, Wisconsin, tells about a fisherman being dragged out of his boat by a big muskellunge which he hooked in Pike lake near there. If Rhinelander doesn't achieve the distinction of being the ideal summer resort of the country for those given to fishing and hunting, it will not be due to a failure of the imagination of the correspondents up there.

A New Industry Predicted.

The next time you start to throw away the pits from cherries used either in baking a pie or as one of the side dishes for your meal, think of an almost startling bit of information just released by the United States department of agriculture which clearly shows that oil extracted from cherry pits has been found valuable and a market is ready for more commercial production.

In their quest for waste farm products which may be used commercially, chemists of the agriculture department have recently completed a study of the properties of cherry-kernel oil. Their findings justify the belief that this oil would find ready use if produced in large enough quantities.

In many respects, these chemists report, cherry-kernel oil is similar to oil derived from almond, apricot and peach kernels. Investigation has shown that it should prove useful as a salad oil, and suitable in the manufacture of various cosmetics, and for some pharmaceutical preparations.

The oil contents of the kernels ranges from about thirty-two to forty per cent. If all the pits separated at the canning plants were used for oil, the annual production would amount to more than 4,000,000 pounds.

The next thing is for some young man who possesses courage, ambition and wisdom to develop the commercial possibilities of these pits. A Ford for the new cherry pit industry is needed.

Frozen North Takes Up Herding.

Alaska, hitherto noted for its gold rushes and its Eskimos, may become one of the leading sources of the United States food supply, according to a recent report and investigation of the department of the interior.

Estimates from the department show that Alaska has 250,000 square miles of land in the central and northwestern parts of the territory that is useless for agricultural purposes because of climate conditions, but which is providing pasturage for millions of reindeer.

This industry was established by the government primarily to furnish a means of livelihood for the natives of the northern section of the territory; to supply in a measure a food to replace game, seal, walrus and whale which were being rapidly depleted. The original stock of 1,280 reindeer, from which have come the present herds, was imported from Siberia over a period of ten years, beginning in 1892.

About two-thirds of the stock is now owned by natives and one-third by whites. From the beginning it is said that both groups have taken the greatest interest in the reindeer investigations and are rapidly adopting the recommendations that have been made by parasitologists, veterinarians and grazing experts engaged in the work.

It is reported that open herding and seasonal changes of pasture have been adopted in many sections of the territory and in round-ups the use of modern corrals with wing fences, chutes and squeezes are found far more practical than the older, cruder methods formerly in use.

The zeal with which these cowboys of the north have attacked their problem will undoubtedly be eventually repaid, for not only have they made practical use of a land hitherto wasted, but they have provided a reserve store of food which may stand the United States in good stead if a food crisis should arise in this day of economic crises.

A blue-eyed fraulein from Berlin attending Columbia university has accepted $8,000 as a compromise for $100,000 damages asked by her from a Chicago married man, who met her aboard the Bremen, made love to her, promised to marry her and wrote her gushing letters. Who can say that the penalty is too high?

There can be no question but what Chicago is making greater strides in the way of civic improvements in a physical way than any other American city, but the announcement that her floating debt of $260,000,000 exceeds the sum she will receive in revenues during the present year shows the awful risk she is running in making her betterments.

A citizen of Santa Rosa, California, in the past fifty-four years has worn 19,710 red carnations as lapel decorations. Just think of wearing and keeping track of almost 20,000 boutonnieres! With citizens like that, is it any wonder that we have attained among the nations of the world the high place we hold?

The Chinese government, wherever it may have its seat, holds that "the paramount duty of the foreigner in any country is to respect and obey its laws." How archaic! Why foreigners over here do not even so much as think of obeying the laws, and a big run of our citizens do not make more than a stagger at it themselves.

City of Verdun.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Having visited Bar-le-Duc what more fitting than that we should go on to Verdun? Bar-le-Duc, as you may remember from my last Little Journey, was the point whence the French went to Verdun in 1914 to 1918, went in such numbers and with such effect that the fortress withstood the shock of the German hordes throughout the war. So Verdun is in its picture rightfully.

So much has been written about Verdun as a fortress and as to its military importance that the city itself has generally been overlooked. One might get the opinion that there was nothing there except soldiers and cannon. But there is. There is a very active city with a bishop, courts, a college, ecclesiastical seminaries and a branch of the Bank of France. And a hotel-de-ville which goes back to the seventeenth century and has compelled the admiration of many travelers with artistic tastes.

Industries, too, flourish in Verdun. It is the seat of manufacture of sweetmeats, nails, files, embroidery, linen, chairs and rope and also distills some very fine liqueurs. So you see Verdun isn't just a kennel for war dogs. And the canal, which runs right through the center of the city carries a large trade in agricultural produce and timber.

Flippant persons sometimes describe the age of a certain thing by saying it was so-and-so old "When Hector was a pup." Verdun is almost as old as that. Anyway, it was an important town at the time of the Roman conquest and was made a part of Belgica Prima. The bishopric dates from the third century. Germany did conquer Verdun in the tenth century, but the French people came into their own again when Henry II of France retook the town. Again in 1792 the gates were opened to the Prussians, but the revolutionary government punished those responsible with death. And once again in 1870 the Prussians conquered the city after a bombardment, but in the "Big War" the armies of the German crown prince hurled division after division into the attack and each was repulsed. "They shall not pass" meant what it said from 1914 to 1918.

But aside from the war, Verdun is an interesting city. Of course there is a cathedral—Notre Dame—which stands on the site of the two previous churches of the Romanesque period, the first of which was burned down in 1047. A crypt and other remains of the second building, consecrated in 1047, are still to be seen by the visitor. Notre Dame is decidedly under the Rhenish influence in architecture.

In the way of material things the city is well supplied. Since the war it has, of course, been necessary to rebuild almost entirely and aside from the natural feeling of regret one has for the passing of historic buildings the city has been improved. Where hotels with bathe-every-Saturday-night-and-not-then-if-you-can-help-it facilities were grudgingly offered there is a modern hostelry and most of the rebuilt houses have made allowances for the march of progress. And, of course, the restaurants where a table d'hote, "vin compris" at a reasonable figure and up to the usual French standard—which in this regard is always high—abound.

All in all, Verdun is well worth a visit from the traveler.

ELEVEN PROPHECIES OF STEINMETZ.

Wizards are generally accredited with the power of prophecy. The late Charles P. Steinmetz was a modern wizard whose magic was worked in electricity. Living up to tradition, he made his prophecies. There are eleven of them that stand out prominently fifteen years after they were made and examination of them is interesting. They are:

1. "The working day will be reduced to six hours." This is not yet general, but is believed by many to be inevitable. 2. "International radio broadcasting will entertain millions in their homes." This one has come true with a vengeance. 3. "The motion picture machine will be perfectly synchronized with the talking machine." While this perfection may be questioned at the moment, the public has its talking pictures and improvement seems a certainty. 4. "Buildings and homes will be heated by electricity, cooled and ventilated by electricity." The electric refrigerator, cooling and ventilating systems are here and their use is being greatly extended day by day. 5. "Much of the cooking will be done on the table by electricity." Ask any young husband. 6. "Our farms will be electrified." Already 600,000 farms have been electrified. Governor Cooper is an ardent supporter of plans to furnish electricity to the rural districts of Ohio. 7. "Electricity will be cheaper." Average household rates over the country are twenty-five per cent. cheaper than fifteen years ago. 8. "We will use electricity as freely as water." Ask the head of any family who pays the bills. 9. "Industries in the cities will use electric power and so lessen smoke and dirt." This development is slow, but the trend is definite. 10. "Industrial plants will move closer to the source of materials and power houses to the sources of power." Another definite trend. 11. "Single power plants will have a capacity of over 1,000,000 horsepower." This has been almost fulfilled. The plants constantly grow. All this in 15 years!—Columbus Dispatch.

Our Governors by Occupation.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Though the farmers of Ohio have secured larger power in the legislature in recent years, they do not seem to have done any better than in the olden years in the matter of electing representatives of their occupation to executive state offices.

Looking through the long list of men who have held the office of governor in this state, but one appears who, in the language of the day, would be called a "dirt" farmer. He was Joseph Vance, of Champaign county. Jeremiah Morrow lived on a farm and operated a grist mill, but his living was not wrested solely from the soil. The classification of William Bebb seems a little uncertain but he was probably a business man. The same is true of Thomas Kirker, of Adams county. Othneil Looker lived on a Hamilton county farm, but he was a teacher and a local office-holder through most of his life in this state.

The lawyers have had the best of it as to the governorship. The governors who were lawyers were Huntington, Meigs, Brown, Shanon, Thomas Bartley, Ford, Wood, Corwin, Medill, Chase, Dennison Anderson, J. D. Cox, Hayes, Noyes, Allen, Hoadly, Foraker, Campbell, McKinley, Nash, Pattison, Harris, Harmon and Willis.

The doctors have had but one, Governor Tiffin. One, McArthur was a surveyor, and two were journalists, Brough and James M. Cox. Donahey was a printer before he entered politics. Tod, Bartley, Mordecai, Young, Bishop, Foster, Bushnell, Herrick and Davis were business men. Governor Cooper is a contractor, builder and banker.

Governor Allen Trimble was in public service most of his life, but he must have been primarily interested in farming for he was the first president of the Ohio board of agriculture.

Robert Lucas and Thomas Worthington seem to have had no special private occupation, both having been in public service practically all their active lives

Find the Offending Factor.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There is seldom difficulty in recognizing an attack of asthma. The appearance of the patient and his symptoms are characteristic. The attack is likely to begin without warning. The patient's breathing becomes noisy and labored. He is pale and speechless. His skin is clammy. He sits with arms propped on his knees or on a chair-back, to give support to his chest muscles.

If the attack is long continued, the skin becomes more or less blue in color. The pulse is rapid, weak and possibly irregular.

After a few minutes in some cases, or several hours in others, there will be a paroxysm of coughing, when there is expelled a thin, tenacious mucus. After this the severity of the attack lessens, until the breathing becomes normal. These attacks may be repeated immediately or not come on again for days.

The medical profession has come to understand that each case of asthma must be treated individually. Of course, immediate relief is necessary in severe attacks, but the doctor will advise the best procedure.

The next step is to determine whether or not the patient is sensitive to the breathing of some irritating substance. More likely the trouble can be traced to some particular food.

Many persons are irritated by sleeping on pillows filled with rabbit hair or those filled with feathers. Other persons may be susceptible to the hair of horses, or to cat fur, or to the pollen of certain flowers or grasses.

Occasionally occupation plays a part. In a report which I read bakers were found who were sensitive to wheat protein, a sifter of green coffee beans was sensitive to green coffee protein, and so on.

But in many persons the attack follows the eating of some common food, as cereals, eggs, milk, fish and even potato.

When the offending article has been discovered it must be eliminated from the diet. If something not a food is at fault it may be necessary for the patient to move from a certain locality or to change his occupation.

Fortunately not a large percentage of persons suffer from asthma. But the victim must be studied carefully to find the offending factor.

The Mutations Theory.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In the fields of biology and physics have occurred, within recent years, certain extraordinary developments which bear a striking analogy to each other. The quantum theory is at variance with the doctrine of continuity, which presupposes that physical changes take place by infinitesimal gradations. The relativity theory is likewise opposed to the classic concept of "action at a distance," associated with the Newtonian theory of gravitation

In the field of biology, the mutations theory is at variance with the Darwinian concept of continuity. Darwin studied those striking variations familiarly known as "sports," which are now technically known as "mutations." He believed that organic evolution proceeded by minute variations, one form changing gradually int another form but slightly differing from it. Although "sports" bore the appearance of being the origins of new species, Darwin rejected this notion, since it ran counter to his wide-ranging theory of adaptation to environment.

Towards this problem, Huxley appears to have been more open-minded than Darwin.

"Mr. Darwin's position might, we think, have been even stronger than it is," said Huxley, "if he had not embarrassed himself with aphorism 'Natura non facit saltum,' which turns up so often in his pages. We believe • • • that nature does make jumps now and then, and a recognition of the fact is of no small importance in disposing of many minor objections to the doctrine of transmutation."

Einstein objects to "action at a distance" just as Darwin objected to the notion that evolution proceeds by big jumps or sudden large changes. But de Vries has taken the step in biology similar to that of Planck in physics. De Vries believes that nature sometimes does make leaps or "saltations." Planck believes that energy proceeds sometimes, not continuously, but discontinuously in patches or "quanta."

De Vries maintains that species of a new specific character originate by the taking of a single new step. Whereas he recognizes that these new steps, while of large size occasionally, are infrequent, he nevertheless believes that herein only is to be discerned the true origin of species. This is a revolutionary conclusion, and has proved the incentive to prolonged research.

The existence of "sports" is by no means a new discovery. It is believed that Aristotle was aware of their existence. The very theory of mutations was outlined by the brilliant author of the "Religio Medici," Sir Thomas Browne, who actually employed the same term which de Vries used. Following his illustration of the operation of this principle with reference to the coloring of animals and the human race, Browne says: "All which mutations, however, they began, depend upon durable foundations, and such as may continue forever."—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Aug. 27—When society reporters are stumped for the low down on high sitters in the "400" world they do not consult Social Registers or Almanacks de Gotha. They consult Theodore—Theodore of the Ritz, most famous of all headwaiters and an encyclopedia of the elect.

For more than twenty years in New York, London, Paris, Berlin and Constantinople he has been humoring rich students of gastronomy. He has bestowed his oddly imperious bow of obesiance upon dukes, princes, Wall Street millionaires and other possessors of the earth, including kings.

Brillat Savarin declared feeding kings was equivalent to ruling empires. This was the excellent exaggeration of an excellent cook, but certainly Theodore has a world of his own over which he rules—amiably, suavely, but ever firmly.

I have been observing Theodore for years, and his art of seating an undesirable behind a palm next to the orchestra bass drum smacks of wizardry. He does it so graciously the patron instead of feeling slighted is bewitched. He comes back for more.

Theodore, it strikes me, is at his best at lunch time. When he stands at the portals in gray morning suit with a lapel nosegay of white and eye glass ribbon of black—every inch the aristocrat. He suggests the poised eagle, ready to swoop down and carry something desirable away.

But Theodore's swoop is to carry some favored satrap to a select table and express in oleaginous murmurs his pleasure and solicitation. Theodore is an old friend, and I have at times tried to puncture his gravity with a little kidding. It can not be done. He takes his job as seriously as Einstein.

When the last light in his cafe is dimmed at night, Theodore slips into business clothes, leaves his post by private entrance, steps into a purring limousine and is whisked away. An hour later he is among his flowers, books and collection of rare paintings at his Westchester estate.

It was Lucius Beebe who wrote of Theodore: "He differentiates urbanus from rusticus, separates civilization from barbarism." I shall remember Theodore for an amazing display of trigger thinking. On a sweltering night, years ago, Theodore's roof was packed. A debutante who had too many cocktails was swaying about the dance floor with an embarrassed escort. Suddenly she slipped out of his arms. Somewhere a quick hand-clap—and lights were out. A few seconds later, when they came one, the lady was on a chaise lounge in an anteroom. Theodore, calm, impeccable, was bowing to arrivals at his silk rope. Few realized, least of all the debutante, his quick thinking saved the lady not only from scandal, but possible tabloid headlines.

Theodore's full name, incidentally, is Theodore Szarvis. He was born in Hungary, and one of his close friends is Ferenc Molnar, Hungarian dramatist. A standard character in many novels of E. Phillips Oppenheim is a headwaiter whom many recognize as Theodore. The British writer and Theodore are friends of the maitre d'hotel's London days. Theodore married an English lady, and they are parents of three children, one a son, has made strides as an artist.

In a tea garden on the Vendome side of the Paris Ritz is the celebrated Clement, a head waiter who adjusts a monocle to an appraising eye and sports the most unusual silver goatee any one ever say. It parts in the middle and sprouts into two complete dollar-sized loops. He, unlike the young Theodore, is the imperial old gentleman who has dominance over all head waiters of the world. Unless you belong to royalty he does not escort you to a table. He just points the way.

My favorite head waiter, however, is Si, ebony black, who before going to his "Green Pastures" presided over the dining-room in my father's country town hotel. Quails in aspic, the chill of Burgandian wines or other epicurian delights were unknown to him. If Si liked you, he sat you at the drummer's table—the one with the bowl of fruit. And inquired: "Squirrels, beef heart or liver?"—Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 27—One of the most dramatic figures in the United States senate during the turbulent days of the World war has won his first skirmish out in Oklahoma in his fight to return to the body where he has served already for fourteen years.

Thomas Pryor Gore, first blind man ever to sit in the senate and one of his state's first two representatives in that chamber, will oppose Senator W. B. Pine, the incumbent, in the general elections in November.

During the years from 1907 to 1921, when he was swept out of office in the Harding landslide, there was a no more picturesque figure in Washington than Gore.

Blinded in one eye at the age of eight by a stick thrown by a companion at a cow, and deprived of the sight of his other eye at the age of eleven in an accident with a toy gun, he was, despite his handicap, able to reach a seat in the United States senate at the age of thirty-seven.

Gore traces his yearning for a political career to hearing the Congressional Record read while he was a page in the senate of his native Mississippi.

His father, who was a justice of the peace, instilled a desire for law in him. Working as a school teacher with the aid of his classmates who read the books to him, he succeeded in graduating from a law school in Tennessee.

Oklahoma soon claimed him. That state regards him as one of its political pioneers. He assisted in writing its state constitution and was chosen as one of Oklahoma's first pair of United States senators.

Although entirely bereft of his eyesight, he disdains the use of raised type for the blind. He prefers to keep posted on current events by having publications read to him.

His hobby is second-hand books. Often in strange cities, while waiting for his train, he has had bell boys take him to a book store where he would pick out volumes that caught his fancy. His library numbers thousands of volumes.

In his Washington law office, to which he retired when defeated for the senate, he finds his way unaided through the large office building where he practices. The carefully screened electric fan in his office is the only precaution that he has.

Since he left the senate in 1921, his interest in events "on the hill" has continued unabated. It is a familiar sight to see him enter the chamber where he sat for so long, find his way near the place where he formerly sat, and listen to what is going on on the floor. He even snaps his fingers to summon a page just as he did years ago.

He regards his frustration of what he calls a $30,000,000 "steal" from the Osage Indians as one of his outstanding achievements in the senate.

FAIR TICKET SALE HIGHER

Success Anticipated by Board as Concessions Bring Higher Money.

With advance ticket sales running higher than they did last year and with concessions bringing $300 more than last year, members of the Marion county fair board today anticipated success with their 1930 fair which will be held at the fairgrounds here Sept. 9 to 12, inclusive.

More than 100 horses already are entered for the racing program which will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday during fair week, Carl Sifritt, secretary of the board, reported. The race program is being handled by F. E. Kraner, speed superintendent, and J. C. Luvisi, speed secretary.

Advertising at the fair this year will be in charge of the LaRue American Legion post, to which the concession has been let, Sifritt announced. A board fence to be erected around the racing enclosure will be used for advertising purposes by the Legion, he said.

Inquiries concerning exhibits are more numerous to date than last year, the secretary reported.

The board announced today that its scale of prices would include not only the five-admission ticket for one dollar but also 35 cents for single admission and 25 cent extra for a grandstand seat, both day and night.

A Wild West rodeo will be one of the attractions of the fair. The rodeos first show will be given Tuesday night, opening night of the fair, and every day during the fair, Sifritt said.

The fairgrounds now are being placed in shape for the annual program, weeds having been cut and the grounds being cleaned.

Dagger

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURES OF A DARING TEXAS GIRL

CHAPTER 31

"There Is No Death"

As the door swung to behind her, Dagger caught her breath and executed a quick survey of the high-ceiled chamber—seeking the owner of the silvery voice.

In the farthest corner, a small heap of rugs and garments crowned a low divan. From this heap the voice spoke again:

"You are welcome, my daughter."

Dagger was startled. It was almost incredible that life could exist in that shapeless mass; but, peering closer, she perceived a pair of bright, friendly eyes and a small, wizened face.

"Are—are you Ghulam Buk?" she asked.

"Yes. Will you sit?"

A hand that was no more than a claw motioned toward a stool by the divan, and obeying the implied command, she was conscious of a sensation of bewilderment that any creature could give such an impression of extreme age. The man on the divan was shrunken to the dimensions of a child; his very features were in miniature. Perhaps some of her bewilderment was mirrored in her face, for Ghulam Buk chuckled dryly.

"You, my daughter, who have just budded into youth, marvel that so ancient a body as this should retain the spark of vitality. Let me call to your attention the saying of Lao Tze, 'The vase molded out of clay would be useless but for the empty space left for its contents; this shows that however beneficial the material may be to us, without the immaterial it would be useless.' My vase, you see, still fulfills a purpose."

Greatly daring, Dagger let her eye meet his.

"I do not know its purpose," she answered, "but to me you seem to give peace."

"If I read your note correctly—" he fingered the envelope she had sent him—"you craved wisdom, not peace."

"Aren't they the same?"

"Yes—and no, child. There is the wisdom of destruction—and in that there is no peace. And there is the wisdom of rightness, which brings to those who follow it the peace that your Christ said 'passeth understanding.'"

"You know Christ?" she asked curiously.

"I know all teachers who have taught the Way."

"And what is the Way?"

"The Path of Righteousness, Immolation of self, my daughter, Lao Tze, Confucious, Buddha, Christ, they all and lesser teachers pointed the path I follow. What does it matter how a man is called or the color of his skin, if he says: 'Do this because it is right. Forget Self in the Oneness of all.'"

"Is that what you told Blaine Howard?" Dagger inquired.

"You are not the wife he fled from?"

"No. And yet," Dagger added honestly, "he fled from me."

"A just man. You were fortunate in loving him, my daughter."

"Is it fortunate to love one you never possess?" Dagger demanded somewhat bitterly.

"What is possession? What is love? Is it physical? Is it a thing of clay and passion? Or is it, in its finest essence, the distillation of the hunger of two souls for what is beautiful?"

"But is there no more?" she exclaimed.

Ghulam Buk chuckled dryly.

"More? There is all!"

"How can there be more for me? How can I have all? He is dead!"

"No, no, my daughter," said Ghulam Buk. Nothing that is of the spirit dies."

"Is that why I think of Blaine as if he lived?" she asked.

"If you think so, you are in touch with life," he said.

"He cannot be alive," she protested.

"I said you were in touch with life," corrected Ghulam Buk. "I did not know, until you told me, that he had suffered the loss of his material clay which holds the immaterial light of the spirit. And if he has suffered that loss, my daughter, perhaps still he will come to you again."

"How could he?"

"Who am I to say what shall and shall not be? You people of the West have plucked the lightning out of the air, and speak words which ride the winds. Would it be more wonderful if those who are materially dead, and immaterially immortal, returned? Your friend, who was my friend, strove to follow the Way. I think that you, too, seek it. That is sufficient."

"Then I do no wrong if I continue to seek after him, if I follow the Way he trod?" Dagger questioned eagerly.

"Wrong? My daughter, you justify him and yourself. In seeking lies happiness."

The bell-like quality of the distant voice fascinated her.

"But he is surely gone from me?" she suggested.

His eyes blazed so that his ancient face was lit up by the flame of his conviction.

"No one is dead, who has sought the Right, who has forgot himself in the Oneness of all. Seek on, my daughter. At the end of seeking lies wisdom, and he who has found the wisdom of rightness has found peace."

Dagger was touched by awe.

"You have found peace—father?" she asked.

His smile acknowledged the title she had given him.

"I have found peace," he assented. "But the seeking was not easy, so be not discouraged if the Way proves stony."

AIRPLANES DROP SIX BOMBS OVER PEIPING

City Gets First Taste of Civil War as Nationalists Get Busy.

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, China, Aug. 27—Two Nationalist airplanes flying from Sinanfu dropped six bombs in the Tartar City and the forbidden city this morning. Only one bomb exploded, inside the Chienmen gate. No casualties resulted and there was no sign of panic among the Peiping inhabitants.

One of the bombs narrowly missed the residence of Wang Chiang-Wei, the Kuominantang left wing leader.

The city remains quiet and strict censorship prevails.

The raid was Peiping's first taste of civil war this year.

QUIET RULES AFTER KILLING OF PRISONER

Riot in Louisiana Penitentiary Settled; Prisoners Kick on Food.

By The Associated Press

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27—Quiet prevailed today in the Louisiana penitentiary after the killing of Curtis Blackwell, 19, negro prisoner in a riot of more than 25 convicts who refused to work on a private rice farm and barricaded themselves in a temporary wooden cellhouse.

Guards climbed to an adjoining roof and gained admittance to the cellhouse by breaking in through a vent opening. The convicts within hurled missiles, and the guards opened fire.

Blackwell was fatally wounded, a coroner's report said, by John Stovall, negro trusty guard, serving a life sentnece for murder.

Commenting on a rumor that the prisoners had rebelled against the quality of their food Captain W. W. Pecue said he found no ground for complaint. He expressed the opinion that the men were "too lazy to work."

No announcement was made by penitentiary officials of the outbreak, which occurred yesterday morning, and it was not until last night that accounts of the incident were received from parish authorities who offered assistance in putting down the disturbance.

EXPECT EARLY TRIAL FOR THREE YOUTHS

Prosecutor May Demand That Accused Be Sent to Electric Chair.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27—An early trial is expected for the three youths who are charged with the murder of R. Miller Wilkison, at a party in fashionable Shaker Heights Sunday night, County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said today.

The accused youths are Ross Valore and Mike and Angelo Bell. They are held in county jail here without bail for action of the grand jury.

Miller declared that if indictments for murder committed in the perpetration of a robbery are returned by the grand jury, he will demand that each of the trio be sent to the electric chair.

LANGHORNE, Pa.—Louis Hueback, truck driver, has been disillusioned. He had an idea that the law library of Chief Justice Hughes could move through this town at 40 miles an hour or more on the way from New York to Washington. Justice of the Peace Keating ruled otherwise in fining Louis $10 and $2.50 costs. Louis insisted he had orders for sped and had to mantain contact with a truck ahead on which there was an armed guard. The first truck got out of town.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN me and Jubilee woke up this morning and he looked at me and I could feel him wagging as much of his tail as he has got, and my hands felt like clubs, and when I looked at them and they were all wrapped up in white rags, I couldn't remember what was the matter. And then I remembered, and the rags were red from blood in two or three places, and that must of been because I had hurt them with the rope when I pulled Jubilee up after my father had went downstairs after he brung me up and put me to bed last night. I looked at Jubilee and felt offal glad I was alive. Then I got up and let him down, and that didn't hurt so much, and was easier than putting on my short britches, and fixing the buttons.

When I got downstairs my grandfather was just going out with the pail to milk the cows and everybody was up, and my mother kissed me and unwrapped my hands, and put some medicine on them and wrapped them up again. They weren't cut. The skin was just wore off of them.

I went out to the barn and watched my grandfather milk, and we all listened in on what he said when the cows wound their tails around his neck, and then they would turn their heads and look at him so innocent that he would almost blow up. I told him I could take them to the pasture all right, and when I had finished feeding my face my mother and ant took Annabelle Lee and came along as far as the hole I was in to look at it. And the cement had come and the men were getting ready to go to work, and my mother looked at the hole, and when the boss came over she told him all about it and thought he would feel sorry for me, but he looked at me with his pop-eyes and asted her if she was going to pay him for the extra work I had cost them.

She didn't know what to say, and my ant spoke up and said: "No sir. We are going to sue you for $10,000 for leaving such a dangerous place unguarded." His mouth dropped open and he looked at us like a tire that had went flat and then he said he had a family and he would lose his job if we did, so finely he shook hands with all of us and my ant and mother went home with Annabelle Lee, and I went to the pasture with the bunch and we went swimming in the creek and the bandages got wet and came off, and I washed them off in the snoot with them, and he thought it would be a good place to swim, and while I had some bandages on it was pretty good duty after all.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Noel and Mary Patch Up Their Quarrel.

"MAY I go over to see Noel?" Mary repeated, when I did not answer her because I was mentally repeating her dictum. "Nothing's worth a quarrel with the one you love best in the world," then she caught her lower lip between her teeth, and her face was suddenly scarlet.

"Oh, I forgot!" she exclaimed. "A girl who's being shadowed by private detectatives hired by her future father-in-law, must fade Caesars wife o a fare-you well. No, I won't dash over alone! But will you come with me?"

"I'll Dance If It Kills Me!"

She laughed as she rattled off her little speech. But there was bitterness beneath the laughter. I was at a loss what to say to her, and was grateful for the sudden ringing of the bell, an impetuous ring which I thought I identified.

"I don't believe you'll have to go over," I whispered with a smile as I went to the door.

Noel almost dashed past me as I opened it, evidently "remembering his manners," with an effort.

"I've been waiting ever since you left," he explained hurriedly, and I knew that while he was looking dutifully at me, his words were for Mary. "I asked the telephone operator to ring me as soon as you came upstairs, and then I rushed right over. May I speak to Mary?"

"Of course," I said, and he started impetuously toward her, both hands held out. Mary met him half way, and I discreetly turned my back, but I could not help hearing disjointed fragments—"I'm sorry, Noel." "Do not, sweetheart. I was a beast. I didn't mean a word of it. Of course, you're going to love it. And—I'll dance if it kills me."

Mary's laugh tinkled, but there was tenderness in its mirth.

"It won't kill you, poor darling!" she said. "You'll be the life of the party, won't he, Auntie Madge?"

I guessed that she had deliberately included me in the discussion, to lessen the emotional tenseness with which Noel had invested the colloquy. It did not take a Sherlockian brain to deduce that Noel had let his jealous imagination dwell on Mary as the center of all masculine attention during the party, until he had lost control of his temper and sulkily declined to dance.

"I never have been able to determine just what being the 'life of the party includes,'" I said smiling, "but I am sure that whatever it is, you can be 'it' if you choose. And I'm so glad you're going to dance. Nothing so absolutely spoils a party as a young man refusing to dance, and looking bored or sullen while the rest are frolicking. Now if you two will please go into the far corner of the living-room, you'll be out of my way and I'll be out of yours. I've some telephoning to do. We'll have luncheon not later than one, for I must be in the dining room at two to oversee the decorations. I want your help then, Mary, but I'm going to send you to bed about three, so you will have a good, long nap before the party. Noel, I hope you'll me tractable and lie down immediately after luncheon. You're still a bit of an invalid, you know, and we don't want to tire you out."

"I'll do what ever you say, Mrs. Graham," Noel said, and Mary turned to me with flashing eyes.

"What about you taking a nap, Auntie Madge? You've been going longer than anybody. Of course, you will have to see to the decorations at two, and the lord only knows how long they will take, but what's the matter with snatching forty or even thirty winks before luncheon? Noel and I will mount guard in this room and we won't let anybody cross your threshold. We'll also answer all telephones, but we won't summon you unless it's actually imperative. Come, now, what do you say? Please say yes. I'm awfully worried about you."

Veritzen's Mood

I could understand the fatuous look with which Noel was regarding her. She was most winsome and lovely as she stood looking up at me. She had crossed to me and taken my hands in hers as she made her pretty little plea.

"Of course, I'll say 'yes,'" I said, smiling down at her. "I've only three telephone messages on my mind, the first of which I shall attend to at once. The others I shall leave with you, while I snatch a nap before luncheon."

"Oh! spiffy! spiffy!" Mary chanted and whirled the chair from before the telephone stand. "Can I get your number?"

"I'm afraid not," I told her. "I'm going to talk to Mr. Veritzen, and I don't want either of you to be in evidence."

"I should hope not," Mary said quickly. "Let's scuttle, Noel."

She seized his hand and fairly ran with him to the extreme corner of the living-room where easy chairs were drawn up to the low window with its view of the distant river. I wished fervently that I could join them, for I disliked telephoning my employer, especially because of the warm personal note he had sounded during our discussions of the party.

But there was no warmth—instead a surprising frigidity in the tones which came to me when the operater had summoned Mr. Veritzen to the phone.

"Mrs. Graham? I confess I am astonished. I thought you had decided to dispense with my services altogether."

LEE STREET, ERIE IN "NATURAL" TONIGHT

TWO WINNERS SHAPE UP ABOUT EVEN FOR WORLD SERIES GAME

Sensational Play of Youngsters Against Calvary in Their Favor.

BY BOB ELLIOTT

A "natural." That's what the boys are calling this Lee Street-Erie Roundhouse battle in the third game of the Little World Series this evening at Lincoln Park. And they aren't far from right.

In fact, we think they are just right, for if ever two teams stacked up any more evenly than these two do we'd like to know when and where. Lee Street wasn't given a chance to win a game in the 1930 series but the No. 2 champions gave Calvary a sound thrashing and showed doubtful fans that they have one sweet baseball machine.

The railroaders were hot favorites to win the series this year, possibly without the loss of a single game but after the Lee Street performance against the No. 1 league champions we're inclined to doubt that in a most emphatic manner. Comparing the two teams to our way of thinking and figuring, finds Lee Street holding the edge in five of the nine positions and the Roundhouse looking a little better in the other four. Of course the pitchers could easily be classed as even as could Jimmy Kerr and Sammy Sharrock at short.

Wade Conkle is easily the class of the series behind the plate and holds a big margin over A. J. Hinklin. He'll outhit and he'll outfield either of the Roundhouse receivers.

We're inclined to give Lee Street a slight edge on the mound due to the fact that Shoemaker, the lone Erie hurler, pitched only two days ago. Of course he doesn't throw a fast ball and should be in fair shape with the two days rest. Lee Street's starting pitcher is unknown but there is a persistent rumor going the rounds that Charlie Burk, little left hander, is going to try to subdue the Erie sluggers. Fadley, who won the Calvary game seems a more likely starter, however.

Lang To Hurl?

The same rumor has Erie drawing Joe Lang off first for mound duty, which seems a bit out of the range of the possible. Lee Street is going to hit either Erie pitcher. At least that's our 'umble opinion. They've been batting slow ball pitching all season and should find Shoemaker or Lang either one to their picking.

As we said before we'd pick Kerr

HOW THE UMPS WILL WORK TILT

Umpires for the Lee Street-Roundhouse game will be Smallwood at the plate, Curtis on first, Crissinger on second, and Paul Rice on third. The umps will move up another notch for the Kappa-Calvary game unless Umpire-in-Chief Crissinger sees fit to appoint some other than Rice to call balls and strikes due to the fact that Roy Rice is due to hurl for the Kappas.

Gate receipts for the series so far total an even $200, the first game drawing $89.91 and the second $111.41. Both totals eclipse the former high mark of $80.40.

PLAY COLUMBUS TEAM

The Capitol City Cubs of Columbus will play Carl Allgower's Richwood team at Richwood Sunday afternoon. The Richwood team has been going tough so far and expects to add another win to its already long list.

HESS IS DEFEATED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The first eastern ring appearance of Goldie Hess, Los Angeles lightweight, has ended in disaster. Hess, holder of the California 135-pound title, dropped the decision to Tony Canooneri of New York in a 10 round bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night.

Bill Hallahan, Cardinals—Held Reds to six hits and beat them, 3-1.

Eight-Round Boxing Exhibition Added to Sept. 1 Wrestling Card

SPORT RAMBLINGS

BY BOB ELLIOTT

A RATHER unfortunate occurrence took place during the Erie Roundhouse-Kappa game at Lincoln Park Monday. It seems as if several of the Erie players objected rather strenously to Umpire Curtis calling Shoemaker out in the seventh, claiming that he had only two strikes against him. Curtis' indicator showed three strikes and surely an old-timer like Bert has learned by this time how to operate an indicator. However, regardless of whether or not Shoemaker had two or three strikes on him when he was called out, there was absolutely no sense in carrying the argument as far as it went. There would have been very little objection had Curtis banished several of the Erie players from the game.

The two games played so far have been thrillers and no doubt about that. The first game was replete with one thrill after another and the issue was in doubt until the last man was out. That's what increases your crowds and keeps the old spirit up. Then too the four teams are more evenly matched than ever before which necessarily brings closer games. No team holds much of an edge over another. The fighting Lee Street team has won it a large following and they'll be popular favorites to defeat the Roundhouse team tonight. The fans love a fighter and the No. 2 champs have got nine of 'em.

THE proposed game between the first and second all-city teams which will be announced immediately after the close of the Little World series is growing more popular every day and there seems to be little doubt but that the game will take place. It'll be soon after the close of the series with Bert Curtis managing the first team and Ray Smallwood in charge of the second team. We don't mind telling you that the four pitchers who will see action are Gene Gunder, Roy Rice, Mutt Kellogg and Bob Gamble. But which ones which will pitch for the first team will be kept a secret until the official choices are announced. A small admission will be charged with the proceeds going toward building bleachers for President's Field.

BRITON TRACKSTERS IN CHICAGO TONIGHT

American Strength in Field Events Expected To Give Them Victory; English Strong in Track.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—Under the refulgent rays of huge arc lights, winged mercuries of the British empire and the United States clash on historic Soldier Field tonight in another international classic of the cinder paths.

The battle of brawn and flying spikes, the fourth duel international track and field meet between the two English speaking nations, promised and estimated throng of more than 25,000 spectators, thrills and new records.

England, aided by its best talent from 10 dominions, presented a formidable front but was expected to lose in the 14 event struggle, although the result appeared to hinge on but two events—the 400-yard relay and the 480-yard shuttle races. In these two races, the Americans had the best record on season's form.

All six of the running races were all but conceded to the Britons while the American stars, most of them from the Pacific coast, expected to score a grand slam of first places in the weight and field events.

The loss of Percy Williams, 1928 Olympic champion in the 100 and 200 meter events, was a crushing blow to British hopes. Williams, one of those counted on to bring the Britons a victory in the 400-yard relay, pulled a tendon in the English games at Hamilton, Ontario, and was forced to remain out of tonight's struggle.

Leading England's invading army were such stars as Lord David Burghley, Olympic 400 meter hurdles champion; Jack London second in the 100 meters at Amsterdam, Wilfrid Legg of South Africa, finalist in the 100 meters at Amsterdam; Douglas Lowe, winner of the 800 meters at Amsterdam.

Prominent among the American stars were Orval Martin, national intercollegiate one mile champion; Tom Warne, national collegiate pole vault champion; Eddie Tolan, George Simpson, dash stars; Ed Hamm, Olympic board jump champion; Steve Anderson, Washington university hurdler; Herman Brix and Eric Krenz, shot putters of fame; Ray Conger, distance star and Lee Sentman, University of Illinois hurdle star.

CUB HOMER SULTAN BREAKS LOOP HOMER MARK AND TIES RUTH

Cubs Increase Lead to 5½ Games by Beating Bucs, 7-5.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—If you're fat and squat and built like a grand piano, there's good news for you today. Hack Wilson, who doesn't look any more like a ball player than Paul Whiteman, this morning held a new National league record for circuit clouts and was tied with Babe Ruth of the Yankees in the race for the 1930 home run honors.

The thick, rotund slugger of the Chicago Cubs smashed his forty-fourth four-baser of the season yesterday to climax a 7 to 5 victory of the Bruins over Pittsburgh. The mighty blow beat the total hung up in 1929 by Chuck Klein of the Phillies. The triumph placed the Cubs five and one-half games ahead in the pennant pursuit.

Washington's threat to make the American league contest slightly more exciting than an afternoon of bridge temporarily halted as the Athletics staged an eighth-inning rally netting four runs and triumphed over the Senators, 10 to 9. Mickey Cochrane and Al Simmons both got homers in the fatal frame. The failure of the Senators advanced the A's to a seven and one-half game lead.

The St. Louis Cardinals crept almost on top of the third place Brooklyn Robins by lowering away the Reds, 3 to 1. Wild Bill Hallahan gave Cincinnati only six hits and stopped a ninth inning threat by fanning Stripp and forcing Walker to fly out. Other teams were not scheduled.

Bitsy Grant, little Atlanta tennis marvel, keeps in condition by playing basketball during the winter.

GODFREY WINS

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27—George Godfrey, battling colored giant of Philadelphia, had added another knockout victory to his credit as he prepared to leave here for his hometown today, after engaging Arthur Dekuh, Brooklyn heavyweight, in a ring bout which lasted only four of the scheduled 10 rounds last night.

BABE AUSKINGS AND GALION SCRAPPER TO BATTLE AT CRYSTAL

Fight Will Precede Achiu-Gorman Wrestling Match in Labor Day Card.

Not satisfied with giving fans three slam-bang wrestling bouts, one a championship match between Jack Reynolds and Yaqui Joe, the Convention Committee of Marion which is sponsoring the all-star athletic card at Crystal Lake Park Labor Day has announced that an eight-round boxing exhibition will precede the three groan and grunt matches.

There will be no change in the price of admission to the show which is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m. The two boxers who will show their wares before the Labor Day crowd are Babe Auskings, slashing 132-pounder of Mt. Vernon and Joe Pangello, rising Galion battler.

Plenty of Action

These two boys should furnish the patrons of the show some of the most hair-raising action that has been seen in a local ring for many moons. Both are scrappers of no mean ability and aren't afraid to get in and do some real, honest-to-goodness slugging. Auskings is perhaps better known through his brother who fights under the cognomen of "Wildcat." Both of the brothers have fought on the Eagle indoor show cards here and are well-liked.

Little is known of Pangello although he has been headlining most of the Galion boxing shows in the past few months. He holds decisions over some pretty fair boys and may show Auskings an entertaining evening, perhaps too entertaining.

One thing certain that with this boxing match and the three wrestling matches that are scheduled there isn't much advantage in leaving town to see an athletic event over the holiday. Reynolds is a heavy favorite to defend his title successfully against the Mexican challenger but Joe the Yaqui has different views on the situation. He seems to think he may outfox the fox.

Star Semi-Final

Whether Reynolds makes a one-sided match out of the main-go or not, the one-fall, 30-minute semi final ought to more than make up for it. This match finds Joe Banaski, local favorite, opposing Frank Wolf of Austarlia. Banaski is known here as one tough gentleman while Wolf is generally recog-

WALSH DON'T THINK MUCH OF NEW BALL

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The really heinous nature of a ruling, by which a larger and lighter golf ball is to be placed in American circulation after January 1 next, was revealed for the first time today when it was admitted at the offices of the United States Golf Association that no other ball is likely to be available to anybody after the dead line in question. As a matter of fact, this wasn't an admission exactly; it appeared to be a boast.

All of the leading manufacturers, it seems, are committed to making only the new 1.68 ball. It even is my understanding that they plan soon to stop turning out the old type of ball in the hope that in the meantime they will exhaust the supply and leave no surplus when the bars go up.

Thus it appears that a regulation, which everybody deemed to have been aimed mostly at the low-handicap and tournament player, is to be visited alike upon J. William Chucklehead, who is improving right straight along and is liable to break 115 almost any day. The new ball, it is said, will do Chuckle-head a lot of good, which statement only serves to confirm an impression I have held about America for some time. It seems to be a country composed of 110,000,000 people—and those who know what is best for us.

The populace has only one effective rejoinder in this connection but it seems to suffice. In this case, its fancy does not appear to run to larger and lighter golf balls. These have been available at most courses for upward of a year, yet I dare say that you see one of them being played to one thousand of the others. It is reasonable to assume, therefore, that the average American doesn't want what is best for him. He is a fastidious man and is very particular about what ball he misses his golf shots with.

As a matter of fact, the whole matter is a legislative stepchild that has been left on the American doorstep. The child is of British parentage but its care and upbringing is to become strictly an American responsibility. They started it by asking us if we didn't wish a larger and lighter ball. We said yes, and this naturally pleased them immensely.

WOMEN'S CHAMPION TO MEET OLD RIVAL IN TOURNEY MATCH

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, Paired with Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago.

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Aug 27—A defending champion and her nearest rival in medal score faced each other today in the twenty-eighth annual women's western golf tournament.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, title holder, was paired in the second round with Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, woman's western medal play champion.

Mrs. Hill qualified with a 79, the low medal score; Mrs. Jones had an 83. Mrs. Hill won her first match 5 and 4, Mrs. Jones was winner 4 and 3, both their opponents being of similar caliber.

Three intersectional matches were scheduled today. Miss Helen Lawson, Los Angeles, was paired with Mrs. G. W. Tyson, Kansas City. Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles, met Miss Rena Nelson, Chicago. Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, faced Mrs. Roy Green, Los Angeles

STOPPED AGAIN

Bad Weather Keeps Them From Starting Flight.

By International News Service

TOKIO, Aug. 27—Cyclonic disturbances off the eastern coast of Japan today again prevented Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty from starting off across the Pacific in an attempt to reach Tacoma, Seattle, by plane.

Their big ship, the "City of Tacoma" has been ready and fully fuelled for several days awaiting favorable opportunity to roar away on the daring attempt. In warning Bromley of the atmospheric disturbances in his projected route, the weather bureau added that favorable weather conditions may be anticipated by Friday, with slight easterly winds.

The hopoff in that case will probably occur at dawn Friday.

FALLS INTO TRAP

High School Boy Under Arrest Charged With Extortion.

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—Benjamin Markowitz, 17-year-old high school boy, was under arrest today charged with attempting to extort $7,500 from two wealthy women under threat of death. The boy was decoyed into a police trap last night when he attempted to pick up a dummy package of currency. He was captured in a hail of bullets.

Marxowitz admitted writing six letters, threatening as many women with death if they failed to comply with demands for money.

Reform is something that we can easily have too much of.

STOCK MARKET HAS BUSY DAY

Favorites in Steel, Amusement, Utility and Specialty Stocks Hit New High.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The favorites in the steel, amusement, utility and specialty stocks pushed ahead confidently to higher price levels today in one of the most active markets of the month. Close to 2,000,000 shares changed hands up to the noon period, or at the rate of 4,000,000 shares for the full session.

Considerable satisfaction was derived from the Iron Age's confirmation of the expansion in steel production, the industry having speeded up to 54 per cent of mill capacity, against 52 per cent two weeks ago, according to this authority. United States Steel forged ahead to 172¼, the highest price since the June break, but selling orders in abundance crowded in at that price and the spectacular advance was halted.

Radio Keith, General Theaters Equipment, Loew's, Fox and Paramount were the leaders today in a confident upward movement of the amusement stocks, which today reached a new high level on the move. Radio Keith topped 36 for a new gain of 2 points; General Theaters Equipment sold above 35 and Loews at 76.

Better reports from the mercantile and chain-store industry stimulated active buying of Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Kroger, Woolworth and the well-known tobacco shares. Katy led a spirited advance in the low-priced rails and sold up 3¾ at 43⅞. Fractional advances were recorded by the better grade of rail dividend-payers, as well as in the railroad equipment stocks.

CORN HIGHER; WHEAT DOWN

Big Corn Crop Shortage Makes Buyers Aggressive; May Change.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—Corn prices averaged higher and wheat lower in the early dealings today. Influenced by big crop shortage, traders friendly to corn market upturns showed themselves aggressive as buyers, especially during price setbacks. Wheat values were responsible to lower quotations at Liverpool and to reports of prospective heavy selling pressure from Canada. Opening unchanged to ⅜c off, corn later scored gains all around. Wheat started at ½c decline to ½c advance, and subsequently underwent a general sag.

Strong backing for higher prices on corn today came from the government weekly crop report which explicitly confirmed that no general benefit to the corn crop is apparent as a result of recent rains on the contrary, the official advices at hand told of river and creek beds dried up throughout wide districts, and predicted that unless soaking rains are received before the middle of September the continuous feeding of livestock all autumn and winter in such regions appeared probable.

Despite strength shown by the corn market, wheat reflected apparent complete absence of export business overnight. Liverpool dispatches said favorable weather for European harvest operations continued and that quantities or wheat on ocean passage to European continental countries now total 24,064,000 bushels a year ago. Arrival of 990 bushels a year ago. Arrival of wheat at Winnipeg today were 632 cars, mostly new wheat, contrasting with only 232 cars at this time last year. Oats as well as wheat were easy.

and Sharrock as even at shortstop, at least in hitting, with the latter having possibly a slight edge in fielding. Lang has a big edge on first over George Primm but if Lang pitches the Lord only knows who'll be on the initial cushion.

Mike Brahm is as far ahead of Lusch on second as the Athletics are of the Red Sox. Johnny Marshall also will outplay Hosey Williams at shortstop. Johnny hasn't been hitting up to his old form but that old throw is still out there, cutting down aspiring batsmen.

At first glance the Erie outfield seems to hold a big margin over the church league team's offering. However, a close scrutiny of the players and what they've been doing lately finds the margin not so great. In left Glen Price will probably outfield Benny Crabtree but whether he'll outhit him much is a moot question. We might give him an edge of two hits in the series.

How About Richards?

Bindley Richards is better than Wilson in right field without a doubt. He's about the best lead-off man in the series and although not a brilliant fielder ranks at least even with the Erie gardener.

Fido Robbins' ability is known well enough that there's no need of saying any more, but Harold Richard's isn't. This Richards just about won that Calvary game himself and for our part Fido would get only a slight edge. Robbins will probably outhit him although there may be some doubt even on that score, especially if the Lee Street pitchers keep their heads in pitching to Robbins. The fielding? Well, you saw that throw.

nized as one of the roughest wrestlers in the game.

Banaski failed by only the slightest of margins to lift Hugh Nichols' light heavy crown last week in a match at Columbus and wrestling experts are picking him to turn the trick the next time they meet. The success of the Australian will depend on whether he can solve the famed and deadly Banaski leg split.

The eye-opener, also a one-fall 30-minute match, finds Jack Gorman of Toledo up against a tough proposition in Achiu, the Chinese flash. The Chinese star is a doubtful quantity as yet but if he can wrestle like he plays football, Gorman might as well pack up and leave for home.

Castner To Referee

Paul Castner is to referee the boxing match while Ed Beardsly of Columbus will be the third man in the ring during the wrestling matches. Francis Bacon will announce all matches.

The celebration committee will meet Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the Hotel Marion for a dinner meeting and a discussion of plans coincident with the staging of the celebration.

HABERDASHERS TAKE TILT AT BUCYRUS, 3-1

Hitting of W. Merchant and Fielding of Applegett Are Features of Play.

Markert and Lewis Haberdashers took a 3 to 1 decision from the tough Bucyrus Eagles yesterday on the latter's diamond when Bryant Corwin limited the home team to a quartet of safe bingles. He was in no danger at any spot of the game.

The locals got all three of their runs in the first of the fifth when Bob Merchant and Huntsman plated on a double by Jones who later scored on Watt Merchant's third hit of the game. Outside of this inning Lerch hurled a nice game for the locals, giving up a total of eight hits in all.

The fielding of Applegett and W. Merchant featured the play of the locals. W. Merchant also led the hitters with three bingles.

Hand Bondsman Accused Of Attempt To Bribe Officials

GRAND JURY PROBE ASKED

Commissioner Charges Oberlander Offered Money for Reduction of Bond.

By The Associated Press

BUCYRUS, Aug. 27—Prosecutor J. D. Sears, of Crawford county, today announced that the next session of the grand jury will be asked to investigate charges that Henry Oberlander, one of the bondsmen for Wilbur Hand, convicted bank robber, offered a bribe to the county commissioners and the prosecutor provided they would reduce Hand's bond which had been declared forfeited.

Hand was convicted of the $175,000 robbery of the Galion bank. He appealed and jumped a $25,000 appeal bond. He later was captured in Washington and now is serving a 12 to 25 year sentence in the Ohio penitentiary. Before his arrest in Washington, the bond was declared forfeited.

The charge of bribery was made by County Commissioner H. J. Smith, 69, of Bucyrus, a state witness at a hearing before Judge J. W. Wright on an application for reduction of remission of the bond He said Oberlander, a hotel proprietor, offered to turn over to the commissioners $18,700 in money, jewels of undetermined value, and a judgment on property in Toledo.

Smith said he rejected the offer, informing Oberlander the commissioners were without authority to reduce a bond declared forfeited without recommendation from the prosecutor. Smith testified that Sears was approached in the matter. The commissioner said Oberlander told him to put the matter up to Sears.

Of the $18,700 which Smith says Oberlander proposed turning over to the commissioners, it was testified that $10,000 was turned over to Oberlander by two Toledo men by the name of Jamison and Martin, and that an additional $7,500 is being held by A. S. Leuthold, one of the attorneys for the bondsmen.

C. F. Schaber, an attorney for Oberlander and George Rinsel, another of Hand's bondsmen, today said Oberlander will testify Friday and will deny Smith's charges. "The story he will tell will put Smith in a different light," Schaber said.

TO DENY CHARGES

Oberlander Prepares To Combat Testimony of Smith.

BUCYRUS, Aug. 27—That Henry Oberlander, one of the bonsmen for Wilbur Hand, convicted Galion bank robber, who was charged with having made inducements to county commissioners or intimations of bribery during a hearing in common pleas court Monday, will take the witness stand Friday morning and deny the testimony given by Smith, was declared today by his attorney, C. F. Schaber.

According to the testimony of Smith, Oberlander offered to turn over to the commissioners all the sum of $10,000 security held by Oberlander and George Rinsel, the second bondsmen, together with an undetermined amount of jewelry and a mortgage on a Toledo property, if the commissioners would in exchange secure a reduction of the $25,000 bond to $15,000. That Oberlander also offered to "forget" a $1,400 judgment held against Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Sears, if the reduction of the bond was affected, was testified to by Smith.

Hearing on the case Monday, which was primarily a taking of testimony on the application by the bondsmen for remission of the state's judgment for the $25,750 bond, was continued until Friday when Attorney A. S. Leuthold, co-counsel for the bondsmen, was instructed to produce a copy of an agreement of indemnity between Oberlander and Rinsel and men in Toledo who signed the agreement.
